VICTROLA SALESROOM
3 EAST 43RD ST.
The man who thinks a Victrola bought in one place is as good as one bought in another is about right.
But when he attaches the same line of thought to Victrola service he is entirely wrong. Victrolas and records bought of us may be duplicated elsewhere.
Not so with our Victrola service; that is our product alone. What it means is usually described by such phrases as: "More Victrola pleasure," "exclusive repertoire knowledge," "perfectly kept stock," "never-failing courtesy," etc.
Our Repair Service is not excelled in New York.

WAKEFULNESS OVERCOME
How? A glass of Borden's Malted Milk at bedtime—hot—piping hot.
Not a medicine or drug. Just a pleasant, soothing, relaxing, partially predigested food—drink of pure milk and cereals.
Insist on Borden's—the Improved Malted Milk.

TWO MEN KILLED, SCORE ARE HURT, IN SUBWAY CRASH

Southbound Cars Run Into Coaches Stalled at Jackson Avenue Station in Bronx.

Two men—a motorman and a passenger—were killed and more than a score of other persons were injured when a southbound subway train crashed into another southbound train standing at the Jackson Avenue Station, West Farms division, at 5.30 A. M. to-day.

The dead:
Herman Van Nostrand, 32, No. 670 Rhineland Avenue, the Bronx, motorman of the rear train.
Meyer Barall, 54, No. 822 East 162d Street, a wholesale fish dealer at Fulton Market.

These were taken to Lincoln Hospital:
Joseph Blooming, 44, No. 1351 Webster Avenue, guard on the first train; lacerations and fracture of arm.
Max Lipschitz, 32, No. 778 Union

MOTORMAN IN SUBWAY WHO LOST LIFE TRYING TO PREVENT COLLISION

James Cook, 50, No. 885 East 176th Street; lacerations.
George Gillen, 32, No. 1079 Intervale Avenue; lacerations of head.
Hyman Finkelstein, 36, No. 537 Beck Street; lacerations of head.
Samuel Fixler, 27, No. 476 Trinity Avenue; lacerations of head.
Charles Stegry, 44, No. 1182 Southern Boulevard; lacerations of head.
John Catalda, 33, No. 462 Concord Avenue; concussion of brain.
Louis Cohen, 35, No. 2968 Vase Avenue; fracture of arm.
Those who were attended and went home:
Benjamin Kossak, No. 1017 Simpson Street; Louis Schwartzberger, No. 1036 Simpson Street; Sam Herman, No. 2140 Daly Avenue; Max Ehrlich, No. 300 East 160th Street; Charles Glanmann, No. 23 Bradhurst Avenue.
Injured who declined aid and went home were:
Frank Carmichael, No. 2301 Hoffman Street; David Freeman, No. 831 Fox Street; and Herman Schindler, No. 956 Home Street.

District Attorney D. A. Martin of the Bronx, stated that his investigation proved that the tracks were in proper condition and that the automatic trip was in perfect working order. The darkness was intensified by a heavy mist, and it is probable, he thinks, that the motorman could not see the stalled train until it was too late to avoid the collision. Ticket Agent Thomas Runns of the Jackson Avenue Station, told of giving out block tickets, but said that he knew of no steps taken to warn the oncoming train of the stalled train.

Each of the trains consisted of five steel cars and carried a total of about 150 passengers. The first train, in charge of Motorman William Davenport, became stalled because of a defective switch.

The District Attorney said his investigation showed the brakes on the rear car were set, indicating that Van Nostrand had made an effort to stop.

Policemen Louis Gandert and Patrick Murphy were in the street under the station when the accident occurred. They ran up and found the passengers in a panic, and after helping them out of windows and doors sent in a fire alarm.

The two cars in collision were telescoped for a distance of twenty-eight feet.

The power had to be turned off while firemen ripped apart the wrecked cars, and traffic on the southbound tracks was suspended for several hours. As a result thousands of residents of the Bronx swamped the trolley lines, while other thousands walked to work. Traffic continued on the uptown side.

Van Nostrand, his wife said, had worked for the Interborough for ten years and had been a motorman for six. He had been doing considerable overtime of late, she said, but had not suffered from loss of sleep in consequence.

The widow, since last Thursday, had been caring for her brother and sister, who have Spanish influenza at the home of her mother, No. 1716 Melville Street. On last Saturday, the mother contracted the disease.

HOSPITALS NEED WOMEN.
Wife of Doctor Overseas Appeals for Volunteers to Help Here.
Mrs. R. B. Watt of No. 251 West 100th Street, wife of a doctor serving with the marines in France, wishes the women of New York to volunteer to help out in hospitals where patients lack proper treatment because of the shortage caused by calls for nurses and doctors overseas.

Mrs. Watt's interest was aroused by the experience of a maid in her employ at Harlem Hospital, where she says they told her the nurses are so rushed that they can give adequate attention only to the gravest cases.

DAY PLANS CITY ICE PLANT.
Three propositions for the control and operation of a municipal ice plant, intended to reduce the cost of ice for the people of New York City have been submitted to the Board of Estimate by Dr. Jonathan D. Day, Commissioner of Public Markets. To-morrow the board will refer the proposals to the Committee on Finance and Budget.

Dr. Day declares his plan will reduce the price from $1.40 to $1.20 a ton. He proposes that the price be fixed by the city, which would control all ice plants through the Department of Markets.

He also asks the city to lease unused property to a corporation to operate ice plants under direction of the city.

And Here Is the Story—

In normal times this sale would be considered extraordinary. In war-times it is almost like "achieving the impossible." It comes only because certain importers happened to do just what we did a year ago: looked ahead, planned ahead and bought ahead—in the French market. Pooling our purchases we offer this gigantic sale.

At first we thought of putting out the gloves, piecemeal, in lots. "We can't handle the crowds," we said. "We can't get enough salespeople. We can't give good service."

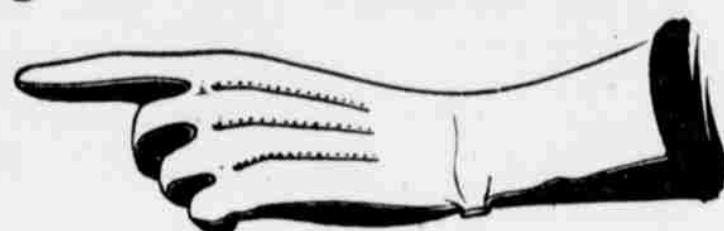

Then we thought again: "nothing is too big for Wanamaker's. It is our way to do a thing in the biggest, most helpful way possible. To give the greatest service to the greatest number."

So the gloves are all on sale at one time—24,300 pairs.

We shall have more than a hundred salespeople.

We shall double and double again the selling space until we have enough.

It is a sale that reflects the spirit of Wanamaker's—and that speaks for itself

Of course we shall have hundreds of 'phone and mail orders—and we shall fill them in the order received so long as the quantity lasts.

Store opens at 9 o'clock and it is patriotic to shop as early as possible to scatter business over the whole day and permit a smaller sales force.

All subways reach the store; and the elevated and Jersey tubes are connected by the free Wanamaker bus.

For now—and for Christmas!
